FRIEDRICHSHAFIN, Germany,

Sept. 1. - Sausage meat, more tightly compressed into the casings than ever before attempted, will form the main ration of the German crew which takes the American Navy dirigible ZR-3 across the Atlantic to Lakehurst, N. J. Especially prepared concentrated foods will make up the remainder of the menu. For the be served in the mornings only, ovided the weather is fair.

Hans von Schiller, who is in charge of the commissary of the airship, is planning to serve cocoa chiefly as a drink, because of its nourishing qualities. There will be in the larder of the dirigible hard-tack, concentrated meat cubes and canned vegetables. Fruit will be served sparingly. Schiller will provide plenty of drinking water, but individuals may take aboard some 'bottled goods" if they so desire. There is to be no smoking tobacco allowed.

All the food carried by the ZR-3 will be of German manufacture, no American firm having made an offer to supply concentrated goods. The task of altering the motors of the ZR-3 continued today. The will take place next Thursday or

The New Season Brings to This Foremost Men's Store a Distinguished and Varied Assortment of

-Advance Models of the Most Approved Styles for Men and Young Men

I New Suits! New styles! New fabrics!—such an assemblage of distinctive apparel should certainly interest the men and young men of St. Louis! In this assortment of Suits, there are models from the extreme to the most conservative - colors from medium to dark! And the variety of sizes is so complete that men of practically any build are assured a perfect fit! At popular prices, you may select clothes which can be depended on to give lasting service and satisfaction.

Two-Trouser Suits For Men and Young Men

Predominating in this interesting group are Suits of new Fall cheviots, cassimeres and worsteds. Some of them are styled along the new English lines-with broad, boxy coats-blunt vests-and wide, straight trousers. Others follow the more conservative modes. There are single and double breasted models in both the two and three button effects. Dark and medium colors-and all sizes for men and

Custom Tailored Suits

Men who pay large tailors' bills because they have an idea they are hard to fit—those are the men for whom this assortment of Suits was especially designed. For, among the sizes, there are those for stout men up to 54 chest-long stouts, short stouts, extra sizes, longs, extra longs, shorts and stubs. The tailoring of each Suit is exceptional and assures permanent shape-retaining qualities. The fabrics are both imported and fine domestic woolens. Hundreds to choose from.

A Bad Start for Loew's Theater, he Editor of the Post-Disputch.

T WO weeks ago we attended the open-ing of our Loew's State Theater under very auspicious circumstances. In Mr. Loew's remarks he led us to believe that St. Louis was to have a movie pic-ture theater where one could take his young daughter and son and their chums and not have an indecent picture thrust before them. But lo, the very second week they have one of the most suggesent pictures we have had in st. Louis for some time, "Broken Bar-

I was one of the victims who paid 65 cents each for four seats and was obliged to leave the theater before I had value received, as I would not subpect my family and our 14-year-old guest to such a "rotten" picture. In addition to other indignities, they ran a cheap advertising stunt picture for 20 minutes. Surely a bad beginning for a million and a half picture theater.

W E, the property owners of Lee avenue and Penrose street, paid for the making of these streets several years ago. Now they come along, tear up these aame streets and make them over. Now, citisens, do you think this is justice to these poor, hard-working people who have all they can do to pay for their homes, to pay a second time for the same street? Who tears up our streets? We don't. These heavy trucks ought to pay to keep and maintain these streets. Where does all the license money go? Not only do the heavy trucks damage the streets, but abake the houses to pieces. Now I think there ought to be something done. Property owners, come to the front and let us see that we get the benefit of this bond money.

Abbie, the little girl of the family, was sented at the breakfast table one morning. As usual, eggs were served. Either she was not hungry or she had grown tired of the bill of fare, for very earnestly and soberly she remarked:

DIARY OF A NUT.

Aug. 27.-I had contracted a bad cold as a result of having met Capt. Raoul Stefannson, the well-known Norwegian excavator, just returned from the equatorial regions from a vain attempt to discover a tribe of white Eskimos. By the way, what has become of the eskimo pie? I caught the cold in a very queer way. I was so engrossed in the hair-raising tales the Captain was spinning out that I neglected to wipe away the cold sweat which came out on my brow. After a while it formed into icicles and when the Captain finally rose to go and said adjeu, my face was such a mass of frigidity I had to chop away at it with an ice pick in order to bid him good-by. Well, this sounds nuch like a lie that I will admit it is one But nevertheless it sounds as plausible as ne of the Captain's experien as well confess how I caught the cold. I caught the Captain lying, and told him sohe hauled off and knocked me cold. There, I have now told the truth and I am glad. After coming to I felt none the worse, but decided to imbibe something warm in order to offset the effects, if any, of the cold,

Why do they call 'em waiters and waitresses when it's the customer what has to do the waiting? Instantly I perceived the aforementioned little waitress to be none other than Mme. Tamaki Miura, the famous prima doughnut. In answer to her query, I replied that I would have some very hot, no not tea, but coffee. "I got your hot cof-fee" she said as she gracefully winked her eye and shuffled out to the kitchen to the classic strains of the "Tannhauser" Overture played by Paul Whiteman's jazz artists. stuff, served in a cute little teapot, with fustur, served in a cute little teapor, with its issurface. Whilst sipping the invigorating fluid, my eyes, yes, they were still open, were glued upon the fragile Nipponese minstreless, who had engraged in a craps game meanwhile with Al Jolson, who porters in this place. "No!" I exclaimed, as Miura was about to remove her silk sash from her kinomo, having lost everything else to the Alabama ivory shover. "I cannot allow this. "Oh, yes," she chirped back, "now I get you. You mean the operatta by Gilbert and Follivan."

To end the absurd conversation I retorted that she had guessed right, and by the way, I asked her if she ever sang anything else hesides "Madame Chiggerfly," or is it Butterfly? Yes, that's it, "Madame Butterfly." 'Certainly," she made reply. "I can also warble out Post Toasti's "Good-by Forware."

BRITISH LABOR AND CULTURE From the Nation

WHILE the political side of the British labor movement is represented by the Labor Party and its industrial side by the Trades Union Congress, its cultural apprations have found expression in the Workers Educational Association, which has just been celebrating its coming of age. The distinguishing feature of this society, born at a meeting of a small group of co-operaat a meeting of a small group of co-ope tors and trade unionists held at Toyn Hall in July, 1903, is the contact it has manual workers. In its tutorial classes, administered by joint committees on which the universities and the trade unions are alike represented, adult wage-earners pursue their studies under the direction of teachers from Oxford and Cambridge well as from the newer English eniversities. The aim throughout is not to make the students better qualified technically for their daily job, nor to train them directly for labor leadership, but by broaden their minds and stimulating their intelle tual interests to enable them to play the part more effectively in laying the foundstions of a better social order.

SHADE TREES ON THE HIGHWAYS.

From the Nation. T' HESE are days when one thanks Go I for every shade tree. Accordingly, they are good days in which to plan for further planting. We are, at best, a bit slow about tree planting in this country; France began systematic tree planting along its national roads in the reign of Francis I, more than roads in the reign of France has a naal register of trees planted on the ma tional register of trees planted on the main state highways, which she has kept ever since the year 1593. The last census showed 2,950,238 such trees shading the French national roads. Tree planting is recognized as an integral part of road building. When a contract is let for a new state road, the specifications include the trees to be set out, and the contractor is responsible for his trees for two years after he sets them out; if they die he is obligate to replace them, and he is not paid in fu to replace them, and he is not putting until the two years have elapsed. somic relation and in the facts of its industrial life from the age in IN TEN DAYS been that it adapts itself to meet still remains to be shown, how-ever, whether we ourselves are able to rise to that new conception of international relations that these changes demand.

"This generation needs no further lesson of the peril and destructiveness of war. We must bring ourselves to think in terms of lasting peace. With American flyers about to complete the circuit of the globe by air, with the human voice carrying across the human voice carrying across the ocean and with man becoming every day more and more described."

"I have had wonderful results with Mercirex, which I have been using for about ten days. I have had trouble with my face breaking out for over a year, now all my face is looking." So says a New Jersey girl whose complexion now is the kind you envy.

Pimples, blackheads, rashes, acre, ivy poisoning, boils, ezema every day more and more dependent upon products brought from foreign soil, those who counsel isolation are blind leaders of the blind. We shall have world peace and world disarmament if peace and world disarmament if we are willing to work for it. We will not get it on any other terms. I call upon laboring men and women of America as those on whom the burdens of war fall with most crushing weight to lead their fellow countrymen on this great subject, to make sure that America takes her rightful place in the councils of humanity and that she becomes the first among the nations in the service of mankind."

BROWNS TRIM CLEVELAND INDIANS, 11 TO 8, IN MORNING GAME

Danforth Is Pounded; Jamieson, Speaker and Williams Hit Homers

By J. Roy Stockton

(Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.)

The Browns won the morning Labor day game from the Cleveland Indiana, 11-8, pounding over three runs against Kuhn, one of Speaker's young pitchers in the eighth, after the Indians had tied it in their half. The big punch in the Browns' big round was a homer by Kenneth Williams with Sisler on base. It was Williams' sev enteenth home run of the season.

Dave Danforth, who started for the Browns was pounded off the hill, as was Ray Kolp and Urban Shocker finished and was credited with the victory. Speaker used three young hurlers, Roy, Fitzke

Zev Is Expected to Furnish European Thoroughbred.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEY YORK, Sept. 1.-Epinard. king of the French turf, will make his American debut today at Belmont Park, when he faces the barrier with the pick of this country's thoroughbred sprinters in the first race of the $100,000 international series. The second race will be held at Aqueduct track the last week in September and the third in October at Latonia. Eleven American stars, including

Zev, the greatest money winner of all time and conqueror of the English Derby winner Papyrus last fall in their famous $100,000 match race, have been entered against Epinard in today's race, but as it is an open event, the actual start-ers will not be definitely known until this afternoon, when track conditions will determine whether any scratches are to be made. Today's race, for a purse of $25,- 000, is a weight-for-age affair, and Epinard, as a 4-year-old, will share the top weight of 130 pounds with Zev of the Rancocas stable; the Kentucky star, Wise Counsellor: Rialto, Snob II, Little Chief, Wilderness and Goshawk. Epinard's Finals Unimpressive.

The distance of today's race, six furlongs, is well suited to Epinard, which has scored most of his victories abroad at shorter distances, and the French thoroughbred has the further advantage of being at home in any sort of going. Illinois Central System Helps to Take Mystery Out of Railroading

This is our forty-ninth monthly statement devoted to giving our patrons information about this railroad. We began publishing these statements in the daily and weekly newspapers on our line in September, 1920. This plan of keeping our patrons posted is now entering upon its fifth consecutive year.

Our statements have been planned with the idea of taking the groundless mystery of railroading. In former years much misunderstanding existed between the patrons of the railroads and the managements of the railroads. The railroads made mistakes by neglecting to take the public into their confidence, and the public made mistakes by demanding the wrong kind of railway regulation. We have sought to put an end to that unconstructive situation. It has been our earnest desire to develop better understanding by informing ourselves of our patrons' needs and wishes (that is why we invite constructive criticism and suggestions) and by informing our public regarding the

Our monthly statements have covered many phases of the railway business. Among our subjects have been the increase in business handled by this and other railroads, the causes of transportation shortages, co-operation between the railroad and its patrons to get the best service out of the railway plant, new equipment purchased and other expenditures for improvements, the menace to life and property caused by careless motorists at grade crossings, the on-time performance of our passenger trains, our efforts to promote industrial and agricultural development along our lines, the part taxes and other expenses play in fixing railway rates, the receipts and expenditures of this railroad expressed in terms of the cents which make up the dollar, and the like. We have endeavored to discuss these subjects in a simple, non-technical manner that would be readily understood.

We have been very particular about our facts. Although we invite criticism, none of the facts presented in our monthly statements has been successfully challenged

We take pride in the belief that our statements have helped the people in our territory to become better informed in regard to this and other railroads. We know that one effect has been to help us become better acquainted with the needs of our patrons and to make us more eager to render a better service. We believe there is much less prejudice against the railroads now than there was four years ago. We believe our citizens generally realize that it is more important to their own welfare to help the railroads through constructive treatment than to injure them through unconstructive regulation. A part of this change in sentiment, we believe, has been due to our informative

We would like to have our patrons consider the task which confronts the management of this railroad. The management is the trustee of an investment of approximately half a billion dollars. This investment is in a railway plant which renders an indispensable service to the public. The power to regulate this and other railway properties emanates from the people. If the people are misled, they may demand the kind of railway regulation that, by injuring the railroads, will injure themselves. If they have the facts, however, they can be depended upon to do what is right and fair.

We believe that we would be remiss in our duty as trustees of this great property if we failed to keep our public informed on railway matters. After four years of this work, we are convinced that our patrons understand and approve what we are trying to accomplish.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

LEGAL INFORMATION.

J. V.—Consult a lawyer regarding the property in question,
A. C.—We do not have the information regarding the slot machines.

E. R. M.—If she paid for the furniture with her own money, then she is entitled to it.
P. S. C.—Write to the Secretary of State, Annapolis, Md., for the information regarding the bonus for the widows of the Spanish War.

CHAS.—If she died, leaving no will and no children, the husband would receive one-half of her estate, and her relatives the other one-half.

I THANK YOU—The parties are free to marry again at once, but it would be safer to wait until October, when the present term of court will end, since the court might set aside the divorce decree during the term of court at which it was granted.

P.D. READER—(1) In our opinion a license would not be necessary for making of potato chips and delivering of them in the way described. (2) Possibly a license might be required for the selling of peanuts to retailers. Inquire at the License Collectors' office, room 102, City Hall.

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

sidered. Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

K. S. D. FAN—The best agency to remove the mole is the electric needle.

STENO—Ordinarily the machine in question will have no effect on the hearing or make one nervous.

MRS. K. J. B.—If the tubes were clogged with pus we cannot conceive of their not being removed at the time of the operation. Whether they were or were not removed we think that conception is not possible.

MISFIT—If there is excessive general body fat. effort should be made at reduction. Rubber coverings, by inducing excessive periation might help. The snug support that this would give would also be beneficial. Massage should be avoided.

"IT IS A PLEASURE TO SEE YOU."-CHAPTER 31. OLLISTER'S expression did not change when he found himself facing his young wife. There was an appreciable second while they looked silently at each other, while the noises of the crowded bazaar swirled around them, and the gushing lady babbled on at their side.

Then Hollister bowed, that gravely courteous bow with which he had left her on their wedding night, and said: "How do you do? It is a pleasure to see you looking so fit."

Marjorie stammered something, her cheeks burning, the fear that his presence always brought her, flaming in her eyes. "I was just telling this lady about what a benefactor you are, Mr. Hollister," the gushing lady was saying. "Really, you're won-

He took it, examined it, and found it to be a soft suede glove which still bore the imprint of a alender hand. As he held it, a faint, intangible scent, but one so dear, so redolent with momories that it caught at his heart, floated up to him.

"The lady who just went away took it off when she bought a chance on the picture, and now she's left it behind. Do you think she'll remember and come back for it, or could you send it to ber, seeing that you know her?"

"I'll take care of it," said Hollister quickly, and thrust it carelessly into his pocket.

But later, at his club, where he waited for his lonely dinner, he took out the glove, smoothed it between his strong fingers, and his eyes were very tender and full of yearning.

It was all he had of her, he thought. A glove and the flaming memory of a kiss. Little indeed for a man to cherish through the long, lonely years that stretched before him!

He folded the scrap of suede very tenderly, laid it between the leaves of a bill fold, and placed it in his breast pocket.

But they choose the line of least resistance, which is to do as little as possible and get away with it. These are the kind who gasp at the life-line of real endeavor. I know a couple who have gone from pillar to post. They have had so many positions they can't count them, because they are always finding fault, and have used the alib ong that it has become threadbare. They live from "hand-tomouth," as it were, and are conshe had been that afternoon when tinually bemoaning their condition.

There is a girl-a stenographerwho, when she hires out, is so anxious for the situation that she is "willing to do most anything." There is the personal friend who makes an engagement with you and does not keep it, and who has an alibi that sounds good but does not ring true. After a while you "get his number," and you don't make appointments with him and he wonders why.

The way to eliminate the alibis is to let them know by your actions that you are "on to them." Soon they will learn the good old adage that "You can't fool all the people all the time."

Household Hints

Cut finely two ounces of beeswax, cover with turpentine and dissolve in a gentle heat; if necessary add more turpentine. Apply little to the linoleum, rub well n and polish with a clean duster.

For mending small, delicate pieces of china, sticking plaster, beeswax (which has been previously warmed in hot water), or even sealing wax, carefully dropped on the joint will answer the purpose admirably.

WINIFRED BLACK

One Tragedy's Beginning

R ER and white, the little coat was.

Bright scarlet and cream white, and such a saucy little flare to the skirts of it, and such impudent pockets. Straight from Paris that coat, as sure as you live!

And the little turn-over hat that went with it -what a darling! Scarlet and cream, with a rosette and a streamer, and the little patent-leather shoes and the cream stockings. Yes, that little daughter was certainly charmingly dressed.

I noticed her waiting for the elevator in the big "What a picture she is!" I thought. "She's certainly some mother's darling." And then mother came hurrying up.

Where did you run to, dear?' she said' WINIFRED BLACK breathlessly.

And dear turned her scarlet-and-cream head and there was a sulky little dark face, with a petulant mouth and ill-"I ran to here!" said Scarlet and Cream. "Where did you suppose?" And her voice was as sharp as a rasp and as sour as a lemon.

You promised to get me a sweater," she said, "and you only got "Don't you like the coat, darling?" asked mama. "Sure I like the coat!" said Cream and Scarlet. "But I wanted a sweater, too, and I thought you'd buy me a wristwatch. You said you would some day. Besides, she's got a wristwatch and she got two sweaters, too. And I just hate this old hat! I know I'll get awfully tired of it. It's all right once in a while, but I thought you'd get me two or three hats. She's got four hats!" Never Satisfied or Grateful. "Why, darling!" said Mother. "Your coat is perfectly wonderful and so is your hat, you look lovel yin them. Daddy will be so proud." Scarlet and Cream made a face. "What do I care how proud Daddy is," she said. 'I wish I'd never gone to the doctor's with you this morning, you're so mean."

"Oh, darling," she breathed And then the elevator came and we all got in, and Scarlet and Cream and her mother stopped at the second floor and my friend and went on to the third floor.

"I'd like to slap her!" said I. "Wouldn't you, or box her ears or give her a good old-fashioned spanking?" It would do her good." it wouldn't," said my friend. "Nothing will do her any good with a mother like that. I'd like to do some shaking and box-ing and spanking, too, but her mother's the one who needs it. "What on earth is she thinking of bringing up an impudent, heartless, bad-tempered, ungrateful little minx like that?" my friend "What will she ever amount to? What kind of a woman "I'd like to take every mother like that and shut her up in a home for the feeble-minded, that's just exactly where she belongs.

"You can't blame her child at all. "Talk about eugenics and worth-while children, there's the knid of we man that never of ght to be allowed to be a mother at all, and yet any board of doctors on earth would pronounce her a born mother." What Would You Do?

And we decided that if that child belonged to one of us we would narch her right straight back to the place where we got the hat and coat, and we'd take off the hat and take off the coat and get the money back for them, and buy something pretty for someone who'd appreciate it and let little Miss Smarty go without a new hat and new coat till she'd learned to be grateful for a pretty gift.

Humiliated by the sight of your child in old clothes? That's nothing to the humiliation that's going to come to that mother some day when that wilful spoiled child makes a face and slams the dor in her mother's face and is off down the road of folly to the house of despera-

In England earized Britons and by the Anglo-Saxons. After the tenth century the fashion seems to have declined throughout Europe and earrings are neither found in graves nor seen in paintings or sculptures for five centuries.

But the fashion was reintro duced into England in the sixteenth century. In the seventeenth century they were worn as much by men as women. Seafaring men, especially of the southern nations in Europe, retained them in use down to modern times. Earrings have never fallen into complete disuse. Today they are worn by women of most all lands.

He felt sure that if he waited long enough he would find out why Jimmy Skunk was working so hard. Jimmy isn't given to doing any more work than he has to. There must be some good reason for him to dig like this on a hot day.

Jimmy stopped digging. He reached in under the big, flat stone and pulled out something. Peter couldn't see what it was but he knew it wasn't a fat beetle. It was something white. Jimmy hig. flat stone.

"Whose eggs are they?" began Peter, obediently.

"Mine," replied Jimmy Skunk. 'Mine, and there are fourteen of them. What a feast I'll have."

"I know they are yours now that you've got them, but whose were they in the beginning? Who laid them?" persisted Peter.

"Why, Mrs. Blacksnake, of course. Who did you think laid them?" replied Jimmy Skunk.
